

Carl Frederick Gaertner was born in Cleveland in 1898. He attended Case Western Reserve University. Gaertner was an important Cleveland artist and belonged to the Cleveland Society for Artists, receiving an award from this group in 1922. He also exhibited and won prizes in the May Show, participated in annual exhibitions at the Macbeth Gallery in New York City, and was widely collected. Gaertner painted a War Memorial mural at Kenyon College. His work consists largely of scenes of Cleveland and its suburbs, especially Chagrin Valley landscapes. Gaertner died on November 4, 1952.
